This era, which lasted from the end of World War II in 1945 until the dissolution of the Soviet Union in 1991, was characterized by a series of proxy wars, nuclear arms races, and ideological conflicts. The rivalry stemmed from contrasting political ideologies: communism, as represented by the Soviet Union, and capitalism, as championed by the United States. The Cold War significantly influenced international relations and led to the establishment of various alliances, such as NATO and the Warsaw Pact.
