Overview of the Boeing 767-400

The Boeing 767-400 is an extended version of the 767 family and is designed primarily for long-haul flights. Delta Air Lines operates this aircraft, offering an impressive range of features tailored for passenger comfort. With a capacity of around 240 to 300 passengers, the 767-400 is equipped with advanced technology that enhances fuel efficiency and reduces environmental impact. The business class section of the aircraft is designed to ensure that travelers can relax and enjoy their flight, making it an ideal choice for both business and leisure travelers.

Technical Specifications

The Boeing 767-400 features a length of approximately 201 feet and a wingspan of 199 feet, making it one of the larger aircraft in its class. It is powered by two high-bypass turbofan engines, which not only provide power but also contribute to a quieter cabin environment. The aircraft's range is approximately 6,000 nautical miles, allowing it to serve international routes effectively.

Aircraft Design and Comfort

The design of the Boeing 767-400 emphasizes passenger comfort. Its wide-body configuration provides ample cabin space, which is particularly noticeable in the business class section. Delta has outfitted its 767-400 fleet with modern interiors that reflect a commitment to quality and comfort.

Seating Configuration in Business Class

In the business class cabin of the Boeing 767-400, Delta Air Lines employs a 1-2-1 seating configuration. This layout ensures that every passenger has direct aisle access, enhancing convenience and comfort. The seats are designed to recline into fully flat beds, allowing for a restful sleep on long flights.

Seat Features

Each business class seat is equipped with numerous features to cater to the needs of travelers:

- Fully Flat Beds: The seats can recline into a fully flat position, providing maximum comfort for sleeping.
- Adjustable Lumbar Support: Passengers can adjust the lumbar support to their liking for improved comfort.
- Personalized Lighting: Each seat has individual reading lights and adjustable mood lighting.
- Power Outlets and USB Ports: Passengers have access to power outlets and USB ports to charge devices during the flight.

Privacy and Space

The design of the business class cabin also prioritizes passenger privacy, with dividers between seats and a spacious layout that reduces the feeling of crowding. This attention to design detail creates an environment conducive to relaxation or productivity.

Amenities and Services Offered

Delta's Boeing 767-400 business class is replete with amenities that enhance the overall travel experience. These include attentive service from flight attendants, luxury bedding, and premium toiletries in the lavatories.

In-flight Service

Delta prides itself on offering exceptional in-flight service. The cabin crew is trained to provide personalized attention to each passenger, ensuring that individual needs are met promptly. This includes assistance with seat adjustments, meal service, and any other requests that may arise during the flight.
