History of Cebu Business Park

Cebu Business Park was developed in the early 1990s as part of a strategic initiative to enhance Cebu City's position as a key economic player in the Philippines. Initially, the area was envisioned to attract investments from various sectors, including IT, retail, and real estate. Over the years, it has evolved into a dynamic business district that has contributed significantly to the local economy.

The land where Cebu Business Park now stands was previously occupied by the historic Lahug Airport. The transformation of this area into a business park was a collaborative effort between the government and private developers, aimed at creating a modern and efficient business environment. The opening of the Cebu Business Park in 1995 marked a significant milestone in Cebu's urban development.

Since its inception, the park has attracted numerous multinational corporations, as well as local businesses, making it one of the most sought-after locations for business operations in the region. The area's strategic location near major transportation hubs, including the Mactan-Cebu International Airport and major roads, has further solidified its status as a commercial hub.
