Overview of the Delta Boeing 767-400

The Delta Boeing 767-400 is a wide-body aircraft that serves long-haul and transcontinental routes. This model is an upgraded version of the earlier Boeing 767 series and is known for its efficiency, comfort, and modern design. With a maximum capacity for over 200 passengers, the 767-400 offers a spacious cabin environment that is conducive to relaxation and productivity.

Delta Air Lines has equipped its 767-400 with state-of-the-art technology and design elements aimed at enhancing passenger comfort. The aircraft is often praised for its smooth flying characteristics and fuel efficiency, which contribute to a more pleasant travel experience. Its business class cabin is designed to cater to the needs of business travelers, providing ample space and privacy.

Seating Configuration in Business Class

One of the standout features of the Delta Boeing 767-400 business class is its seating configuration. Typically, the business class cabin is arranged in a 1-2-1 layout, allowing every passenger direct aisle access. This arrangement enhances privacy and comfort, making it ideal for both work and relaxation.

Seat Features

The business class seats on the Delta Boeing 767-400 are designed with several key features:

- Flat-Bed Seats: Each seat converts into a fully flat bed, ensuring a restful sleep during long flights.
- Ample Legroom: Passengers enjoy significant legroom, accommodating taller individuals comfortably.
- Adjustable Headrests: Seats come with adjustable headrests for additional comfort.
- Personal Storage: Each seat is equipped with storage compartments for personal items, laptops, and other essentials.

Accessibility

The design of the cabin ensures that all passengers can easily access the aisles without disturbing their neighbors. This is particularly beneficial for business travelers who may need to work or move around during the flight.
