Recognizing the signs of illness in your cat is crucial for timely intervention. Cats can be notoriously good at hiding their discomfort, but there are several signs that can indicate that something is wrong.

- Excessive Grooming: If your cat is over-grooming or neglecting grooming altogether, it may be unwell.

Physical Symptoms

In addition to behavioral changes, physical symptoms can provide crucial information about your cat's health.

- Vomiting or Diarrhea: These can be signs of gastrointestinal issues or infections.
- Coughing or Sneezing: Respiratory problems may manifest through persistent coughing or sneezing.
